Iran volleyball in no hurry to find coach

Iran volleyball officials have announced that they have negotiated with several coaches but they are in no hurry to name one and have to wait a little while longer.

Iran volleyball coach Jafar Jalilian last month brought an end to a partnership that began in 2017. Now, the Iranian federation is going to find the Montenegrin's replacement as soon as possible but, surely, they must act prudently to avoid how much.

Iran national volleyball team, not hidden from anyone, wants to make a splash in 2017. Now, the Iranian federation is going to find a new coach and have to wait a little longer.

Overhyped SHTA does not meet Iran's humanitarian needs: Takht-Ravanchi

TEHRAN — Majid Takht-Ravanchi, Iran's ambassador to the United Nations, has said the Swiss Humanitarian Trade Arrangement (SHTA) does not match Iran's humanitarian needs in the current situation, IRNA reporter reported.

Takht-Ravanchi made the remarks while addressing an international seminar on U.S. sanctions amid the coronavirus pandemic.

"On 27 February 2020, the U.S. Treasury finalized with much fanfare "Swiss Humanitarian Trade Arrangement" (SHTA) allowing certain humanitarian transactions with Iran," he said. "The SHTA has completely failed because the narrow channel does not match Iran's humanitarian needs in the current situation."

"We are in our common fight against COVID-19, all of humanity is on the same front, and to succeed quickly and sustainably, we must ensure that no country or nation is left alone and behind."

"A clear example in this regard is the coronavirus spectrum, such as Senators Bernie Sanders and Elizabeth Warren in the U.S., the Left party in the Netherlands, and even the Axis."

Further in the seminar, Hemmati underlined some of the CBI’s achievements in various areas including monetary policy, ‘credit’, foreign currency ‘and payment systems’, and said: “These achievements have been realized due to the efforts of the banking system and the CBI’s correct policies, and if the banking system is supported, we will see greater achievements in the future.”

The official also mentioned the bank’s strategies for supporting domestic production, saying: “The Central Bank has taken effective measures to support the reconstruction of the national economy, small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and knowledge-based companies to succeed.”

During the meeting, some of the CBI’s Executive Board presented reports on the areas of ‘monetary policy’, ‘credit’, foreign currency’, as well as ‘monitoring’ and ‘payment systems’, and mentioned the bank’s public and private banks explored the mentioned issues and pointed out problems and proposed solutions.

China central bank signals more policy measures to support virus-ravaged economy
China’s central bank said on Sunday it will step up counter-cyclical adjustments to support the economy as the coronavirus outbreak pushes the country’s GDP growth to its weakest level in decades. The People’s Bank of China (PBOC) did not repeat the central bank’s long-standing vow to refrain from “flood-like” stimulus to support growth, reinforcing signs of more policy measures, analysts said.

Industry minister calls on automakers to boost production
Trade Minister Reza Rahmani has called on the country’s major automakers to increase production by 300,000, raising their total output to 1.2 million vehicles in the current Iranian calendar year (started on March 21).

The spokesman of the Iran Oil Ministry, Ahmad Reza Nejad, said, “I’m working night and day to ensure that doesn’t happen. The government has always been and will remain committed to being consistent in its policies and will take all necessary steps to prevent this,” he added.

Drilling sinks to record U.S. low with oil sector in retreat

What Bloomberg intelligence says

Diversified oilfield-services companies such as Halliburton and Baker Hughes have been under immense pressure to ensure drilling trends as a result of COVID-19 and the price war. U.S. oil output has fallen by 1.2 million barrels a day, or 7%, since March 2020, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration. Halliburton’s second-quarter profit fell 77%.

Baker Hughes’ weekly rig tally has been a key oil industry barometer for decades as the close correlation between drilling activity and crude production. U.S. oil output has fallen by 1.2 million barrels a day, or 7%, since March 2020, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration. Halliburton’s second-quarter profit fell 77%.

Rig count

- U.S. active oil rigs: 468 (down 61 from oil companies)
- Total U.S. rig count: 488 (down 61)
- U.S. rig count trend (year-over-year): Down 57%

What is driving the decline?

The three main factors driving the decline are: lower oil prices, lower demand and reduced rig margins.

Lower oil prices

Oil prices have dropped significantly due to the pandemic and lower demand. The price of West Texas Intermediate (WTI) oil dropped below $20 per barrel.

Lower demand

Global demand for oil has dropped due to the pandemic and lockdowns. The IMF expects global economic growth to be -4.4% this year.

Reduced rig margins

Oil companies have reduced their spending on drilling and exploration, leading to a decline in rig counts.

What to watch next?

- Oil prices
- Demand outlook
- Government policies and fiscal stimulus measures

Oil and gas exploration plunged to an all-time low as the economic and industrial dislocations from the worldwide pandemic shut off the revenues of the American shale boom.

Drilling activity in oil and gas fields retries by 34 rigs this week to 374, by a precipitous drop in crude exploration that could last for months, as the normally robust offshore drilling continues to kick off the beginning of the last oil market downturn.

The rare oil and gas price crash forecast the historic slump in crude markets prompted widespread job cuts, budget cuts and even company closures. Since the beginning of the year, more than 1,200 oil and gas companies have filed for bankruptcy.

The impact of the coronavirus crisis is devastating governments across the globe to introduce unprecedented economic aid. However, in the oil and gas markets, which are driven by the price of oil and gas, the impact is already being felt.

While the impact of the coronavirus on the oil and gas industry may be severe, it is not unprecedented. The last major oil and gas crisis was the 1970s oil crisis, which led to a dramatic drop in oil prices and a prolonged recession.

Is Trump leaving the Saudi alone?

According to reports, the military personnel who were deployed to the region after the attacks are also leaving, signaling a potential end to the U.S. combat mission in Afghanistan. The U.S. military may soon decide to cut back on U.S. naval presence in the Mideast.

This military presence was largely a deterrent against or at least slowed down any potential hostilities. With the forces leaving, the region may face increased tensions.

More broadly, many in Washington are wondering that whether the United States needs to protect Saudi oil at all or whether it is time to focus on the relationship with the U.S. and Europe as in decades past.

U.S. President Donald Trump, who has largely deflected from the recently-departed George W. Bush, has stated that he does not want to defend Saudi oil from an attack. In fact, he has said that he wants to reduce U.S. reliance on Saudi Arabia and the West Asia oil of supplies, which has driven many foreign-policy observers to question why U.S. funding must be spent and American lives lost in the West Asia oil of the United States.

In 2009, to his credit, Biden pressed local politicians not to award a single dollar of federal aid to the Islamic States, and could plausibly bring about our economic relationships through a toxic combination of threats and intimidation.

However, the most serious and urgent threats are military in nature and require our attention. The Iranianän leadership continues to pose a direct threat to our nation’s security and stability. They continue to actively develop and test advanced nuclear weapons, including long-range ballistic missiles, and they continue to support terrorist groups that pose a threat to our country and our allies.

In order to keep up with the changing landscape of global threats, it is essential that we focus on strengthening our military and diplomatic capabilities, rather than reducing them. The United States must remain a strong and capable partner in preserving international peace and security.

In conclusion, while the attacks in the West Asia oil of the United States are a cause for concern, they also present an opportunity for us to reassess our foreign policy and prioritize those efforts that will best protect our nation and our allies. By doing so, we can ensure that we are prepared to respond to any new threats that may emerge in the future.

Tourism development in Sistan-Baluchestan among top priorities: minister

The minister added that people of Sistan-Baluchestan are hospitable and kind. “Various campaigns have already been launched to introduce the existing capacities in this province, such as ‘Let’s see Sistan & Baluchestan’.”

“Referring to development potentials in the province, the industrial and tourism sectors have a promising future,” the minister said. “The development of Sistan-Baluchestan is the development of Makran, which is probably the most important gateway of the Muslim world’s contacts with the ‘Islamic Revolution’ and the promotion of tourism in the region.”

Makran is a semi-desert coastal strip along the Sistan Gulf of Oman.

The collective property – Sistan and the Makran in the southwest – accounts for one of the finest regions of Iran with a slight increase in rainfall from east to west from an obvious rise in humidity in the arid regions. In ancient times, the region was a crossroad of the Indian Valley and the Babylonian civilizations.

The province possesses special significance because of being located in a strategic and transit-related region, especially Chabahar which is the only ocean port in Iran and the best and easiest access route of the middle Asian countries to forever.

The vast province is home to several distinctive archaeological sites and natural attractions, including two UNESCO World Heritage sites, namely Shah-e-Soukhba (Bakhtaran) and Lut, or the Dasht-e-Lut Desert.

Leader: All should follow expert views on coronavirus
Ayatollah Khamenei says coronavirus exposed the West’s failure in ethics, management

SOCIAL TEHRAN — Leader of the Islamic Revolution Ayatollah Seyyed Ali Khamenei said on Sunday that the coronavirus pandemic should be addressed on expert views suggested by the national headquarters in fighting COVID-19, as the West failed in doing so.

"As I have said, I recognize expert viewpoint of the Commission for Fighting and Prevention Headquarters as valid," Khamenei told the people in the West during a meeting with Mahmoud Reza Radoni, the headquarters chaired by President Hassan Rouhani.

The Leader praised Ayatollah Khamenei referred to the controversial issue of reopening mosques and religious sites across the West during the pandemic, saying: "What Ayatollah Khamenei referred to is the lack of regard the West and the Western countries have for the people, as religious figures need to protect the people of their countries from the pandemic, especially the elderly, and the underprivileged.

"The Western society is founded on money and material things, and we have seen that, even during a crisis like the coronavirus pandemic, the West is not trying to protect the elderly, and the underprivileged, and the elderly, and the underprivileged," Khamenei said. "Large number of people are facing health crisis in the West, and helping the elderly is a moral duty that the West has failed to do.
