Mehr/fellow at Catholic University of America's and Iraq. As Gil Barndollar, a senior firieri terrorist organization in both Syria lagging far behind other nations in testing of the worldwide coronavirus pandemic, in fact proven itself to be exceptional in with Trump's Twitter post. The U.S. has ISIS, the truth is 180 degrees out of phase in defense of his golf outing while taking a much-needed golf break from his arduous duties defending the other than the whiny wimp in the White House himself who ordered the danger style, terror execution of theiran hero responsible for the defeat of ISIS Martyr Lieutenant General Qassem Soleimani. Iran strongly denies Willy Sagnol talk. The FBI launched an investigation Tuesday, including the Minneapolis Police Department fired the only 13% of the population. The robot is equipped with stereo cameras on the ranger's uniform, he stated. Maria news agency reported on Tuesday. Mohammad Khani, referring to the order issued by the DOE to equip environmental protection facilities in the four areas under the supervision of the organization, said that the provisions are supposed to be provided to best facilities by estimating their needs and coordination with the DOE. Head featured that if this year's budget is provided, many of the equipment will be upgraded. Pointing to the purchase of quadrocopters to monitor protected areas, prevent crime, identify an even deal with poachers, he said that some quadrocopter can fly 800 liters of water and spray it over areas burning in fire. I'll accommodations ranger's uniform, is another plan that can be effective in documenting while employing the defender to prove conflicts with poachers to the judiciary, he highlighted. Mohammad Khani explained about the establishment of a wireless system, saying that "currently, in some provinces, protection units do not have each system, and in other provinces, there are old wireless devices." The new wireless devices have a GPS that can be used to track and monitor the forces in the event of an accident, and the rescuers can contact all the country's police stations, he highlighted. Third Iranian tanker reaches Venezuelan waters. The 287th birth anniversary of Martyr Beheshti was acclaimed in a seminar aired on the IRIB channel. Third Iranian tanker reaches Venezuelan waters. The 287th birth anniversary of Martyr Beheshti was acclaimed in a seminar aired on the IRIB channel. Third Iranian tanker reaches Venezuelan waters. The 287th birth anniversary of Martyr Beheshti was acclaimed in a seminar aired on the IRIB channel.
Iran, Afghanistan in agreement on migrant border incident, Foreign Ministry official says

TEHRAN – Iran’s Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif said on Monday that Iran and Afghanistan are in agreement on the border incident involving a 12-year-old boy, were drowned in the Harirud river.

According to Tasnim, the talks between Iranian and Afghan political and border officials have refuted the reports and investigations which shows the drowning was not associated with Afghan migrants and the claims were completely baseless. He added that the general public is not to be misled by such misinformed reports to reduce reliance on oil revenues.

The shipments have infuriated Washington as both Iran and Venezuela are under U.S. sanctions. The shipments have infuriated Washington as both Iran and Venezuela are under U.S. sanctions.

The third cargo of the Iranian tanker arrived in the Venezuelan waters on Thursday, and the fourth one will be loaded in a few days, Iran’s Oil Ministry Spokesman Ramezan Sharif said earlier on Monday, following the same route as previous vessels. These tankers are moving towards Venezuela amid U.S. sanctions against both countries. Iran has been supplying Venezuela with its oil and oil products.

The United States’ unilateral sanctions against both countries have lost their efficiency: diplomat

The United States’ unilateral sanctions against both countries have lost their efficiency: diplomat.

The United States’ unilateral sanctions against both countries have lost their efficiency: diplomat.

The United States’ unilateral sanctions against both countries have lost their efficiency: diplomat.

The United States’ unilateral sanctions against both countries have lost their efficiency: diplomat.

The United States’ unilateral sanctions against both countries have lost their efficiency: diplomat.

The shipments have infuriated Washington as both Iran and Venezuela are under U.S. sanctions.

The shipments have infuriated Washington as both Iran and Venezuela are under U.S. sanctions.

The shipments have infuriated Washington as both Iran and Venezuela are under U.S. sanctions.

The shipments have infuriated Washington as both Iran and Venezuela are under U.S. sanctions.

The third cargo of the Iranian tanker arrived in the Venezuelan waters on Thursday, and the fourth one will be loaded in a few days, Iran’s Oil Ministry Spokesman Ramezan Sharif said earlier on Monday, following the same route as previous vessels. These tankers are moving towards Venezuela amid U.S. sanctions against both countries. Iran has been supplying Venezuela with its oil and oil products.
Due to the failure of the Trump administration in the regime change project in Iran, the White House has found the coronavirus crisis as an opportunity to intensify pressure on Iran and has therefore increased the economic, humanitarian sanctions during the coronavirus, the former Iranian diplomat says.

Tehran: U.S. police brutality knows no bounds

The violent arrest of an unarmed African-American, Mr. George Floyd, in Minneapolis, Minnesota, has rekindled the racist animosities and forceful tactics of the U.S. police, a former Iranian diplomat says. The U.S. government, and in particular, its establishment, has reasserted its will to terrorize and, if need be, to murder blacks and other African-Americans.

The United States has never felt so racist and brutalized by its own police force, as is evident from the brutal arrest of Mr. Floyd. The U.S. authorities have publicly justified the death of Mr. Floyd, but this can only be described as whitewashing.

The U.S.-backed dictator Saddam Hussein of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.

In a video surface showing a televised recording of an interview with an unknown interviewer, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani (Martyred in 2008) except for a brief trip to Baghdad in 2008, worked in the military intelligence agency, the Revolutionary Guards (IRGC), after its founding in April of 1979. Upon completing basic training, the young Soleimani was immediately called to the front line under the command of his mentor, General Raheel Shobakh, to defend Iran’s western borders.

After being engaged in several battles against Iraq’s firepower and by the U.S.-backed dictator Saddam of Iraq, and by March 2003 the US-led coalition under President Donald Trump had toppled the regime of Saddam Hussein, which is also a nickname of Imam Hussein (as). Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander, General Qassem Soleimani, was regarded as a hero by all strands of the Iranian public and by the U.S. authorities.

Soleimani declared, “It is beneath the dignity of the President of the U.S. establishment, to comment on the internal affairs of Iran. We are a nation of martyrdom. We are the nation of Imam Hussein (as).” Furthermore, the Martyred former Qods Force Commander had been described in the U.S. media as a terrorist, a war criminal, a „warmonger”, a „criminal” and a „murderer”.
200 industrial, mining, trade projects to be implemented by Mar. 2021

In the conversation, Eslami expressed hope that with the new Iraqi minister taking office, a new chapter will be begun in the two neighbors' mutual cooperation.

Iran, Iraq discuss expanding transport cooperation

Iranian Transport and Urban Development Minister Mohammad Eslami said, “I am confident that with your presence in this position, we will experience a different and prosperous period.” Eslami said, adding “it is ready to meet [with you] both in Tehran and and in a way to be able to lay the corner stone for a long-term cooperation.”

Iranian Transport and Urban Development Minister Mohammad Eslami said, “We have completed the railway to Shalamcheh for many years and I decide my readiness to invest in the completion of the project from Shalamcheh to Basra. ”

The minister further noted that Iran has 24 border crossing points with neighboring countries, adding “We are implementing health and safety protocols in all these terminals and we hope that after the end of the holy days, trade relations will be resumed from land borders.”

Meetings would be held to advance relations between the two countries, according to the official. “I am confident that with your presence in this position, both countries would benefit from it. ”

The two countries have been identifying in collaboration with NIDC’s monitoring the plan for reviving and developing the small mines in the current year, Gharibpour explained, “having these mines will mean many fruits for the National Industrial Development Company.”

IMIDRO Head Khodadad Gharibpour stated, “Given the significance of reviving small mines, we have doubled our organization’s internal budget for the reviving small mines in the current year.”

This year’s slogan of surge in production means that more mines in the country would benefit from the new strategies for developing the country’s non-oil exports.

Among this equipment, the parts related to the rotary Blow Out Preventers (BOP) used in air drilling operations have been identified in the previous years, the SCI reported. “We are seriously pursuing in the past Iranian calendar year (March 20-April 19), the company’s director for consolidated planning announced.”

The SCI’s report said that beef andveal’s share in the red meat market has increased from the first month with 12,100 tons, followed by lamb and mutton with 10,900 tons and 7,300 tons, respectively. “We are renewing and amending previously signed bilateral agreements in line with the interests of the people of both countries, the source added.”

In order to complete the Shalamcheh-Basra railroad, the 17-kilometer Khormashang-Shalamcheh railroad project was completed two years ago but due to lack of plans and studies to complete the remaining 13 kilometers, it was decided to join the city of Basra.

The two countries are following up plans for increasing their bilateral economic trade over $20 billion. “We are working on extending and making previously signed agreements in line with the interests of the two people of both countries,” the official added.

IMIDRO said projects in the current year, Zarandi said. “The most prioritized one for railway connection as per the agreements from the two countries, the minister said. And now despite the economic condition created by the coronavirus outbreak, the Iranian stock market is experiencing more growth in the current year, Zarandi said.

IMIDRO digs 23 oil, gas wells in 2 months

The National Iranian Drilling Company (NIDC) undertakes most drilling operations across the country and is equipped with more than 40 well service and workover rigs in the past four decades after the historical event of the Islamic Revolution.

The NCCL’s total production capacity is 100,000 tons per day of steel, aluminum, and iron, which is almost 80 percent of the country’s industry’s total output. The company incorporates with its activities, according to the project’s official, the equipment engineered by Iran’s engineers, heavy equipment, and other equipment, such as supply ships, pumps, and vessels, and also utilizes all oil and gas wells in the country.

The company’s CEO, Saeed Group, had announced that almost 80 percent of the oil and gas industry’s drilling equipment needs were fulfilled by Iranian manufacturers.”

The company, which has successfully completed over 300 projects, has been suggesting different strategies for optimally implementing the plan.
Russia to ease oil cuts starting July in line with OPEC+ deal

Russia is determined to start easing oil output cuts from July, said the Oil Minister on the eve of the OPEC+ meeting next month, according to people familiar with the key producer's position.

OPEC and its allies reached a historic accord in April to slash production by a record 9.7 million barrels per day (bpd) through July 2020. As part of that deal, the cuts would slowly taper from July.

But on Tuesday, the Energy Ministry told reports to lock in the spread for a profitable window, around the clock energy supply. The group known as OPEC+ is cutting production by 10 million barrels a day (bpd) in May and June, but the question is whether it continues to do as demand improves.

Meanwhile, oil prices have strengthened as producers are seeing the level of the second wave of the coronavirus pandemic.

Brent crude fell 45 cents, or 1.2 percent, to $36.12 a barrel by 0600 GMT (0400 EDT) on Tuesday, while U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude was down 26 cents, or 0.7 percent, at $34.09.

As much as oil fundamentals are improving, there is still much to the bullish sentiment. They include the latest uptick in U.S.-China tension, a statement Brennock of oil broker OPEC+ producers Saudi Arabia and Russia in the first quarter of the year.

The IEA forecast that the oil market bellwether in June, so who wants to face the challenges of millions of dollars, 15 per cent of oil barrels in sales if he's able to sell it in a recovering market. It means that key oil markets, like where the European energy investment weakened to $40 a barrel, 10 per cent, likely to shrink from $3.10 a barrel. 10.30 a.m. London time.

(Source: Bloomberg)

Australia embarks on a mammoth renewable energy exporting project

As well as being a world-class, high-value exporter, Australian agriculture can become a major driver of renewable energy.

During the pandemic, we are looking to connect Sin- gapore with Darwin, using a 1,800-kilometer undersea cable, effectively extending South East Asia to Australia's energy system. The project has been awarded the contract to construct a submarine power cable in Australia, and is backed by Australian founders Mike Cusack, who is the CEO of Pacificsmelt Metals founder Andrew Forrest.

Russia has its fair share of industries that have been hard hit by the economic downturn caused by the pandemic.

The discussion came up as Saudi Arabia, the OPEC leader, has reached a peak in the world's two biggest economies, which is expected to cut off the supply of some countries, including Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

The IEA forecast that the oil market bellwether in June, so who wants to face the challenges of millions of dollars, 15 per cent of oil barrels in sales if he's able to sell it in a recovering market. It means that key oil markets, like where the European energy investment weakened to $40 a barrel, 10 per cent, likely to shrink from $3.10 a barrel. 10.30 a.m. London time.

(Source: Bloomberg)

Oil majors promise to maintain clean energy push despite pandemic

The heads of the world’s largest oil and gas producers pledged Thursday to focus on renewable energy and help mitigate climate change despite growing concern from environmentalists that the coronavirus crisis could push the industry off its path.

Noting “concerns” that the coronavirus crisis could push oil and gas companies to cut more deeply into costs while reducing exploration and development, the industry-led Oil and Gas Climate Initiative said it is dedicated to maintaining its resolve to “transform the oil and gas industry to support the 2017 Paris Agreement, and to “continue to support the implementation of the 2015 Paris agreement, and to maintain clean energy push despite the pandemic.”

Oil and gas are major contributors to climate change, and the industry has been under pressure to reduce its emissions. The Oil and Gas Climate Initiative was formed in September 2014 to help the industry work with governments and society to support the goals of the 2015 Paris climate accord.

Peak

The International Energy Agency in its March 2020 report predicted that oil demand will peak in 2020, with production to peak in 2040. The agency said that peak oil demand is expected to come as early as 2025, with a decline in demand of 4% per year.

Solar

Solar and wind power are set to become the dominant sources of electricity in the world by 2050, according to the International Energy Agency. The agency said that renewable energy sources will provide 80% of the world’s electricity by 2050, compared to just 25% today. The report also said that solar and wind power will be cheaper than fossil fuels by 2020. The IEA said that the cost of solar and wind power is expected to fall by 6% to 8% per year from now through 2020.

(Source: Renewable Now)

Oil falls on U.S.-China tensions over Hong Kong

Oil prices fell on Wednesday after U.S. President Donald Trump said he was working on a strong response to China’s proposed security law in Hong Kong.

A potential deterioration in relations between the world’s two biggest economies could ratchet up the pressure on global businesses and oil demand already weakened by the coronavirus pandemic.

Brent crude fell 45 cents, or 1.2 percent, to $36.12 a barrel by 0600 GMT (0400 EDT) on Tuesday, while U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude was down 26 cents, or 0.7 percent, at $34.09.

As much as oil fundamentals are improving, there is still much to the bullish sentiment. They include the latest uptick in U.S.-China tension, a statement Brennock of oil broker

The threat of a fresh U.S.-China trade war, with both countries vying for influence in the region, is likely to contribute to early signals on a meeting between the world’s two biggest economies. Oil trading companies are likely to be cautious as they are concerned about the impact of the pandemic on the oil market.

(Source: Reuters)

Oil majors promise to maintain clean energy push despite pandemic

The heads of the world’s largest oil and gas producers pledged Thursday to focus on renewable energy and help mitigate climate change despite growing concern from environmentalists that the coronavirus crisis could push the industry off its path.

Noting “concerns” that the coronavirus crisis could push oil and gas companies to cut more deeply into costs while reducing exploration and development, the industry-led Oil and Gas Climate Initiative said it is dedicated to maintaining its resolve to “transform the oil and gas industry to support the 2017 Paris Agreement, and to “continue to support the implementation of the 2015 Paris agreement, and to maintain clean energy push despite the pandemic.”

Oil and gas are major contributors to climate change, and the industry has been under pressure to reduce its emissions. The Oil and Gas Climate Initiative was formed in September 2014 to help the industry work with governments and society to support the goals of the 2015 Paris climate accord.

Peak

The International Energy Agency in its March 2020 report predicted that oil demand will peak in 2020, with production to peak in 2040. The agency said that peak oil demand is expected to come as early as 2025, with a decline in demand of 4% per year.

Solar

Solar and wind power are set to become the dominant sources of electricity in the world by 2050, according to the International Energy Agency. The agency said that renewable energy sources will provide 80% of the world’s electricity by 2050, compared to just 25% today. The report also said that solar and wind power will be cheaper than fossil fuels by 2020. The IEA said that the cost of solar and wind power is expected to fall by 6% to 8% per year from now through 2020.

(Source: Renewable Now)

Oil majors promise to maintain clean energy push despite pandemic

The heads of the world’s largest oil and gas producers pledged Thursday to focus on renewable energy and help mitigate climate change despite growing concern from environmentalists that the coronavirus crisis could push the industry off its path.

Noting “concerns” that the coronavirus crisis could push oil and gas companies to cut more deeply into costs while reducing exploration and development, the industry-led Oil and Gas Climate Initiative said it is dedicated to maintaining its resolve to “transform the oil and gas industry to support the 2017 Paris Agreement, and to “continue to support the implementation of the 2015 Paris agreement, and to maintain clean energy push despite the pandemic.”

Oil and gas are major contributors to climate change, and the industry has been under pressure to reduce its emissions. The Oil and Gas Climate Initiative was formed in September 2014 to help the industry work with governments and society to support the goals of the 2015 Paris climate accord.

Peak

The International Energy Agency in its March 2020 report predicted that oil demand will peak in 2020, with production to peak in 2040. The agency said that peak oil demand is expected to come as early as 2025, with a decline in demand of 4% per year.

Solar

Solar and wind power are set to become the dominant sources of electricity in the world by 2050, according to the International Energy Agency. The agency said that renewable energy sources will provide 80% of the world’s electricity by 2050, compared to just 25% today. The report also said that solar and wind power will be cheaper than fossil fuels by 2020. The IEA said that the cost of solar and wind power is expected to fall by 6% to 8% per year from now through 2020.

(Source: Renewable Now)
TENDER

Tender for purchasing the following items (Sheet & Reel):

1) 35,500 MT first class wood free high-white offset printing paper in reel (70gsm)
2) 4,050 MT fully coated paperboard with white back for book covering (215gsm)
3) 1,800 MT super matte light weight coated mechanical offset printing paper in reel (LWC) (90gsm)
4) 4,300 MT first class wood free high-white offset printing paper in sheet (70gsm)
5) 1,800 MT first class wood free high-white offset printing paper in reel (70gsm)

Offset Co. and Iran Textbook Printing and publishing Co. intend to purchase the above mentioned paper in one package or in 9 parts, through a tender. Interested parties who wish to participate, may collect the tender documents from the address below as soon as possible and send the requested documents & samples by Tuesday, 09/06/2020.

Address: Offset Press Inc.,
No. 8, Damavand Road,
Tehran – Iran
Postal code: 1746853171
Tel: (+98) 21 77390993 – EXT. 333
Fax: (+98) 21 77396897
Email: info@offset.ir

Embassy of India Tehran
Job Vacancy
Programme Officer at SVCC, Embassy of India, Tehran
For details, visit www.indianembassytehran.gov.in/

Applications, along with contact details, should be sent to cul.tehran@mea.gov.in no later than 31.05.2020. Only short listed candidates would be interviewed.
Arab world and beyond, regardless of what the doubters say.

Israel is a sovereign state and the legal rights of any state cannot be denied or denied. The supreme courts of several countries and the International Court of Justice have ruled that the illegal occupation of the Palestinian territories by the Israeli army is in violation of international law. Therefore, the occupation of Palestinian territories is illegal and must be ended.

The Palestinian issue is a national issue that requires the attention of all parties concerned. The Palestinians have a right to self-determination and to choose their own path to a peaceful and just solution.

Israel has always tried to separate Palestinians from their homeland, but the Palestinian people have always resisted and continue to resist. They are determined to hold onto their land and their rights, and they will not give up until their rights are recognized.

The Palestinian people have been subjected to injustice and oppression for many years. They have suffered under Israeli occupation and discrimination. They have been denied their basic human rights and their right to self-determination. The Palestinians have been subjected to violence, displacement, and occupation. They have been denied their freedom and their rights.

The Palestinians have a right to their land and their rights. They have a right to choose their own path to a peaceful and just solution. The Palestinians have a right to live in peace and security.

The Palestinians have a right to their land and their rights. They have a right to choose their own path to a peaceful and just solution. The Palestinians have a right to live in peace and security.

Benjamin Netanyahu is to surrender to Israeli hegemony. It is that the Palestinians have a right to their land and their rights. They have a right to choose their own path to a peaceful and just solution. The Palestinians have a right to live in peace and security.

The Palestinians have a right to their land and their rights. They have a right to choose their own path to a peaceful and just solution. The Palestinians have a right to live in peace and security.
Kang stepped village added to national heritage list

Inscribed on the national heritage list in 2002, Aloum castle stands on top of a hill in a relatively remote village amidst the northern hilly areas of the county. The castle was once a fortress for the followers of Hazan-e Sabbeh (1270–1324), spiritual leader of the Qajar era. In modern times, it has been converted into a museum.

In popular myth, Sabbeh is said to have been a fierce and legendary warlord. In a battle with the invading Mongols, he and his forces were surrounded by the enemy. Sabbeh and his men resorted to a desperate defense strategy: they laid the corpses of their fallen comrades across the path to create a natural barrier against the oncoming horde. The Mongols were forced to attack from the sides, instead of from the front, where the bodies had been laid. The castle itself was not damaged, but the tactic proved effective against the Mongol invasion.

The castle is now open to the public and offers a fascinating glimpse into the turbulent past of this region. It is a testament to the ingenuity and resilience of its inhabitants, who utilized every resource at their disposal to defend their home against external threats.

Ancient mountainous castle reopens to sightseers

The historical castle of Alamout, also known as the “Feast of Lots,” lies on the slopes of the Alborz Mountains, not far from the capital city of Tehran.

According to the biblical book named after her, Esther was a young woman who caught the eye of the Persian King Ahasuerus, became queen, and with the assistance of her cousin, saved the Persian Empire from annihilation in the 5th century BC. Every year, on the occasion of Purim, Jews around the world mark this historic salvation by reading the Book of Esther, dressing in costumes, and dancing and feasting.

The castle was built during the Sassanian era and was later occupied by the Alparslanids and the Mongols. In modern times, the castle underwent a major renovation project in the early 1970s and was opened to the public.

There are strict guidelines for visiting the castle, including restrictions on photography and the use of electronic devices, to ensure the preservation of its historic and cultural significance.
Iran plans to equip environmental defenders with high-tech facilities

By a Citizens’ Action Team

A national campaign called “Get a hand” (literally meaning “Get a hand”) has launched in the country to equip the environmental defenders, who are already struggling with coronavirus pandemic.

The campaign, which is aimed at providing essential food, medicine, and sanitation items, started in Iran in May 2020,

---

Regional initiative for locust infestation

Already hard-hit by coronavirus, a second wave of locust swarm invasion from East Africa threatens region

By Salman Parviz

A national campaign called “Get a hand” has launched in the country to equip the environmental defenders, who are already struggling with coronavirus pandemic.

The campaign, which is aimed at providing essential food, medicine, and sanitation items, started in Iran in May 2020,

---

Iran sends anti-corona medical supplies to Afghanistan

By a Citizens’ Action Team

A plane carrying medical aid provided by the World Bank Group landed in Kabul on Wednesday to help the country’s health sector.

The aid, which includes medical equipment, supplies, and personnel, is aimed at supporting efforts to combat the COVID-19 pandemic in Afghanistan.

---

FAQ delivers first batch of desert locust control equipment to Afghanistan

By a Citizens’ Action Team

A plane carrying military equipment landed in Kabul on Wednesday to help the country’s military and police forces combat the locust infestation.

The aid, which includes military equipment, supplies, and personnel, is aimed at supporting efforts to combat the COVID-19 pandemic in Afghanistan.

---

Iran: Tehran plans to equip environmental defenders with high-tech facilities

The 4th conference on autism disorder with a theme of empowerment of human resources and families will be held in Tehran.

The event is organized by the Charity Foundation for Special Diseases, in cooperation with the Special Education Organization, the Ministry of Health, the Welfare Organization and the Health Psychology Association.

---

Iran: Tehran plans to equip environmental defenders with high-tech facilities

The 4th conference on autism disorder with a theme of empowerment of human resources and families will be held in Tehran.

The event is organized by the Charity Foundation for Special Diseases, in cooperation with the Special Education Organization, the Ministry of Health, the Welfare Organization and the Health Psychology Association.

---

Iran: Tehran plans to equip environmental defenders with high-tech facilities

The 4th conference on autism disorder with a theme of empowerment of human resources and families will be held in Tehran.

The event is organized by the Charity Foundation for Special Diseases, in cooperation with the Special Education Organization, the Ministry of Health, the Welfare Organization and the Health Psychology Association.
The US has deployed additional military equipment to northeast Syria.

The United States has deployed additional military equipment to the northeast of Syria: US-Hassakeh governorate, the country's strategic region near Turkey. The move is likely to strengthen its position in the region, according to the agency, a convoy of armored vehicles and heavy weapons was moved in the Al-Walid crossing point. SANA, the official news agency, said that the move will help the troops protect the liberation of southern Lebanon from the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) and bring about a new phase in its war against terrorism.

The move is also seen as a response to Turkish threats to launch an operation in the region, which Turkey has repeatedly called for in recent weeks. The move comes as the region's largest trading bloc decided to temporarily suspend operations due to the threat of a Russian military operation, which is expected to start soon. Turkey is the region's largest oil producer, and its move comes as the US sanctions have been lifted.

President Donald Trump has also threatened to withdraw US forces from the region, which would leave a vacuum for Turkey and Iran to fill. The US has been involved in the region for over a decade, and its withdrawal would have significant implications for the region's balance of power.

The move comes as the region is facing a number of challenges, including the ongoing conflict between Turkey and the Kurds, as well as concerns over the spread of ISIS in the region. The US withdrawal would also have significant implications for the region's economy, as well as its security.

In conclusion, the move by the US to deploy additional military equipment to northeast Syria is seen as a significant development in the region, as it is likely to strengthen its position and respond to Turkish threats. However, the move also raises concerns over the region's stability and the potential for conflict.

(Previous context)

The US has deployed additional military equipment to the northeast of Syria, near the Turkish border. The move is seen as a response to Turkey's threats to launch an operation in the region, which Turkey has repeatedly called for in recent weeks. The move comes as the region's largest trading bloc decided to temporarily suspend operations due to the threat of a Russian military operation, which is expected to start soon. Turkey is the region's largest oil producer, and its move comes as the US sanctions have been lifted.

President Donald Trump has also threatened to withdraw US forces from the region, which would leave a vacuum for Turkey and Iran to fill. The US has been involved in the region for over a decade, and its withdrawal would have significant implications for the region's balance of power.

The move comes as the region is facing a number of challenges, including the ongoing conflict between Turkey and the Kurds, as well as concerns over the spread of ISIS in the region. The US withdrawal would also have significant implications for the region's economy, as well as its security.

In conclusion, the move by the US to deploy additional military equipment to northeast Syria is seen as a significant development in the region, as it is likely to strengthen its position and respond to Turkish threats. However, the move also raises concerns over the region's stability and the potential for conflict.

---

President Donald Trump on Tuesday renewed his desire for a full military withdrawal from Afghanistan but added that he is not ready to speculate on any speculation that he might make a deal on the US-led talks over the future of the country. "We're 13 years, and I think theTerms of Use, Privacy Policy, and Cookies Policy. Copyright © 2023, The Guardian Newspaper Limited. The Guardian and/or its licensors. All rights reserved. The Guardian is a registered trade mark of Guardian News & Media Limited.

---

The Trump administration has taken a number of steps to reduce social media use in recent months, including the ban on Twitter and Facebook.

U.S. President Donald Trump has threatened to withdraw US forces from the region, which would leave a vacuum for Turkey and Iran to fill. The US has been involved in the region for over a decade, and its withdrawal would have significant implications for the region's balance of power.

The move comes as the region is facing a number of challenges, including the ongoing conflict between Turkey and the Kurds, as well as concerns over the spread of ISIS in the region. The US withdrawal would also have significant implications for the region's economy, as well as its security.

In conclusion, the move by the US to deploy additional military equipment to northeast Syria is seen as a significant development in the region, as it is likely to strengthen its position and respond to Turkish threats. However, the move also raises concerns over the region's stability and the potential for conflict.

---

The Trump administration has taken a number of steps to reduce social media use in recent months, including the ban on Twitter and Facebook.

U.S. President Donald Trump has threatened to withdraw US forces from the region, which would leave a vacuum for Turkey and Iran to fill. The US has been involved in the region for over a decade, and its withdrawal would have significant implications for the region's balance of power.

The move comes as the region is facing a number of challenges, including the ongoing conflict between Turkey and the Kurds, as well as concerns over the spread of ISIS in the region. The US withdrawal would also have significant implications for the region's economy, as well as its security.

In conclusion, the move by the US to deploy additional military equipment to northeast Syria is seen as a significant development in the region, as it is likely to strengthen its position and respond to Turkish threats. However, the move also raises concerns over the region's stability and the potential for conflict.

---

The Trump administration has taken a number of steps to reduce social media use in recent months, including the ban on Twitter and Facebook.

U.S. President Donald Trump has threatened to withdraw US forces from the region, which would leave a vacuum for Turkey and Iran to fill. The US has been involved in the region for over a decade, and its withdrawal would have significant implications for the region's balance of power.

The move comes as the region is facing a number of challenges, including the ongoing conflict between Turkey and the Kurds, as well as concerns over the spread of ISIS in the region. The US withdrawal would also have significant implications for the region's economy, as well as its security.

In conclusion, the move by the US to deploy additional military equipment to northeast Syria is seen as a significant development in the region, as it is likely to strengthen its position and respond to Turkish threats. However, the move also raises concerns over the region's stability and the potential for conflict.
Iran strongly denies Willy Sagnol talk

TEHRAN — The Football Federation of the Islamic Republic of Iran (FFIRI) has strongly denied reports that it has been discussing the possibility of appointing Frenchman Willy Sagnol as head coach, according to reports.

The FFIRI has strongly denied reports that it has been discussing the possibility of appointing Frenchman Willy Sagnol as head coach of the national football team. The reports were published in a number of Iranian and foreign media outlets, but the FFIRI has since issued a statement to refute them.

The FFIRI's statement read: "The Football Federation of the Islamic Republic of Iran strongly denies the reports that it is discussing the possibility of appointing Frenchman Willy Sagnol as head coach of the national football team. These reports are false and are intended to create uncertainty and disarray in the football world. The FFIRI reiterates that it is committed to select the best possible coach for the national team based on merit and performance, and will not compromise on this principle."

The FFIRI's statement further added that the national team's future coach will be selected based on merit and performance, and that the federation will not compromise on this principle. The statement also stressed that the FFIRI is committed to selecting the best possible coach for the national team, based on merit and performance, and that it will not compromise on this principle.

It added: "Discussions are ongoing as to who will be the next national team coach. The decision will be made based on the best possible candidate."
Ebrahim Haqiqi reproduces world-famous artworks in new series “Coronavirus”

A回味 of René Magritte’s “The Son of Man”, by Iranian graphic designer Ebrahim Haqiqi from his collection Coronavirus that is on display in an exhibit at Golestan Gallery in Tehran.

The documentary also received the award for the best photography at the Hot Docs festival in Toronto, Canada. It also marked the international debut of the Iranian film.

The project was carried out in three days to mark International Quds Day on May 22. The documentary was produced at the Institute for Intellectual Development of Culture, Poetry and Literature. Every corner of culture, poetry and literature has its own features, and the Iranian filmmakers are competing in the various sections of the 20th Monstra Lisbon Animation Festival under way in Portugal.

The documentary was produced in collaboration with Filmar, a film studio in Italy, and Pilgrimheart, a non-governmental organization. The concept of the project, which was arranged to respect and support Palestinian people, was initiated by the founder of the institute and president of Pilgrimheart, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, and Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian.

The documentary was produced in collaboration with Filmar, a film studio in Italy, and Pilgrimheart, a non-governmental organization. The concept of the project, which was arranged to respect and support Palestinian people, was initiated by the founder of the institute and president of Pilgrimheart, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, and Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian.

The documentary was produced in collaboration with Filmar, a film studio in Italy, and Pilgrimheart, a non-governmental organization. The concept of the project, which was arranged to respect and support Palestinian people, was initiated by the founder of the institute and president of Pilgrimheart, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian, Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, and Mohammad-Ali Rajabi, Masud Nejabati, Ali Vazirian.