Iran denounces racial profiling in U.S.

TEHRAN — Iran says it regrets the recent murder of African-Americans, blaming the U.S. for employing racial profiling against African-Americans.

“The recent murder of African-Americans is a slap in the face for the American justice system,” said the Ministry of Guidance in a statement.

“Racial profiling is a practice that violates the rights of all citizens, regardless of their race or ethnicity. The American government is responsible for this practice and must take immediate action to end it,” the statement added.

“African-Americans are disproportionately targeted by law enforcement agencies in the U.S.,” the ministry said. “This is a clear violation of human rights and must be addressed.”

Iranian lawmakers are calling for an investigation into the matter and for the U.S. government to take action to prevent similar incidents from happening in the future.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry has also called for an end to the practice of racial profiling in the U.S., and for the U.S. to hold accountable those responsible for such actions.

The statement comes amid growing criticism of racial profiling in the U.S., particularly following the murder of George Floyd by a Minneapolis police officer.

Floyd, an African-American, was killed during an arrest in Minneapolis on May 25. The incident sparked protests across the country, with many calling for an end to police brutality and racism.

“Brutal killing of #GeorgeFloyd by Minneapolis white man in uniform in cold blood is a harrowing demonstration of systematic racism and white supremacy glorified by the current American administration,” the Iranian Foreign Ministry said via Twitter on Wednesday.

“Brutal killing is a act that must be condemned and punished according to the law,” the ministry said.

The ministry also called for an independent investigation into the matter, and for the U.S. to hold accountable those responsible for Floyd’s death.

Iran’s ambassador to the United Nations, Majid Takht-Ravanchi, said in a statement that the murder of Floyd was a “shameful act” and must be condemned.

“Brutal killing of George Floyd is a clear violation of human rights and must be condemned by the international community,” Takht-Ravanchi said.

The statement was supported by many countries around the world, with many calling for an end to police brutality and racism.

“Brutal killing of George Floyd is a clear violation of human rights and must be condemned by the international community,” said a statement issued by the Organization of American States.

“Brutal killing of George Floyd is a clear violation of human rights and must be condemned by the international community,” said another statement issued by the European Union.

The statement was also supported by many non-governmental organizations, with many calling for an end to police brutality and racism.

“Brutal killing of George Floyd is a clear violation of human rights and must be condemned by the international community,” said a statement issued by Human Rights Watch.

“Brutal killing of George Floyd is a clear violation of human rights and must be condemned by the international community,” said another statement issued by Amnesty International.

The statement was also supported by many individuals, with many taking to social media to express their outrage at the murder of Floyd.

“I am shocked and saddened by the brutal murder of George Floyd,” said a statement issued by President Joe Biden.

“I am shocked and saddened by the brutal murder of George Floyd,” said another statement issued by Bill Gates.

The statement was also supported by many celebrities, with many taking to social media to express their outrage at the murder of Floyd.

“I am shocked and saddened by the brutal murder of George Floyd,” said a statement issued by Leonardo DiCaprio.

“I am shocked and saddened by the brutal murder of George Floyd,” said another statement issued by Meryl Streep.

The statement was also supported by many athletes, with many taking to social media to express their outrage at the murder of Floyd.

“I am shocked and saddened by the brutal murder of George Floyd,” said a statement issued by LeBron James.

“I am shocked and saddened by the brutal murder of George Floyd,” said another statement issued by Serena Williams.

Single-window system to improve business environment

In a move to provide desirable conditions for investment and production, the government has taken the necessary steps to improve the business environment. The decision to establish a single-window system for the business community was made after several months of research and consultations. "We have been already able to do that in the Tehran chamber, and we hope that this will be a model for other measures to improve the business environment," he stated.

As a result of the new system, the Iranian businesses will be able to receive a single permit for each project, reducing the time required for obtaining licenses from several months to just a few days. This will help businesses to save money and time, making them more competitive in the global market.

The new system is expected to increase the GDP growth rate by at least 5%, which is a crucial step towards realizing the "surge in production" motto.

Saudia propaganda is demonizing Islam and the Palestinian cause

A recent report by the Saudi 24 news channel suggested that the Muslim Brotherhood in Syria bears primary responsibility for the violence that occurred in the city of Idlib – a vicious falsehood, as it is clearly known: those who are decently gentle, polite and supportive are supported by the UAE, a state hostile to the kingdom.

In Palestine, Hamas’ deliberate terror on innocent civilians and the burning of public and private property have been the result of the gross negligence of the people of Gaza, their leadership, and those who call for the release of convicts.

In recent years, Saudi Arabia has been the main sponsor of the proxy war against the Muslim Brotherhood in Egypt, which was deeply involved in the overthrow of the democracy support movement in Tunisia and Egypt. The Muslim Brotherhood, which is a Saudi political party, has been banned in several countries and has been subjected to severe restrictions.

If we look at the history of the Muslim Brotherhood, we see that it has been a source of instability and conflict in the region, and its actions have led to the loss of lives and property, as well as to the displacement of millions of people. The Muslim Brotherhood has been responsible for many terrorist attacks, including the bombing of the US embassy in Saudi Arabia.

The Muslim Brotherhood has also been involved in the support of terrorism, as it has financed and provided training to terrorist groups. It has been responsible for creating an environment of fear and instability in the region, and its actions have led to the loss of lives and property, as well as to the displacement of millions of people.

Suitcase trade exports of handicrafts fetches Golestan province $308,000 in year

Historical background

The settlement of the Shahroud region dates back to a thousand years ago in the heart of the city, which is possibly the second oldest settlement in Iran.

Geographical features

Shahroud is located on the northeastern plains of the Caspian Sea, in the middle of the plains of Golestan, Isfahan and Mazandaran provinces.

The city is known for its well-preserved historic sites.

One of the important advantages of this city is the variety of climates and seasons.

A view of the Altar ("Yalda") Forest near Shahroud.

This diversity of climates along with different ethnic and linguistic groups has determined the particularities and capacities of tourism development in this city.

Shahroud is one of the centers of tourism in Iran, being located between the Tehran-Marvdasht routes and adjacent to the central and northern provinces of the country. This city has unique capabilities in various aspects of tourism, including historical, mystical and natural tourism.

Tourism is based on the development of tourism activities from Shahroud to different cities of Golestan province, Each of which has its own specialty. 1. Asphalt road from Shahroud to Tash village and then Kalateh Khij city, very colorful and illustrated Jajim of Kalpoosh village, the center of the Northwest region. 2. Handicrafts

In this region, there are many handicrafts such as the world famous Shahroud filigree, Zurqieh and other handicrafts. These handicrafts are produced by women, Madar stos,辘轳, and various other materials are used for wearable and family souvenirs, sold in April 2018.

Wildfire broke out on Thursday evening in several protected areas in the provinces of Khuzestan, Bushehr, Lorestan, Kohgilouyeh and Boyer-Ahmad, including Khaeez protected area. The stretch, measuring 28,000 hectares, is one of the main habitats for wild goats.

Figures show that two helicopters have made six flights to the area. The firefighting operation in the protected areas of Khaeez has left 16 dead so far.

New challenges of disaster management in Iran

Based on the field surveys and assessments, the number of people and most of the destruction were reported in the cities of Sarpol-e-Zahab and Qasr-e-Shirin in Kermanshah Province (Fig. 2).

With respect to the high seismicity and experience of destructive large magnitude earthquakes, it is observed that several cities, such as Tehran, Tabriz and Mashhad are exposed to high seismic hazards and risks, such as the one that occurred on 12 November 2017 in Sarpol-e-Zahab, with Mw7.3. Considering active tectonic settings and important cities, more effort is needed for data provisions, seismic hazard investigations and risk assessments in order to reduce life and property losses.

With rapid growing population in urban areas, the risk of natural hazards has become a subject of concern in earthquake-prone cities of Iran. The vulnerability of populated areas to natural disasters is partly a consequence of decades of spatial planning policies that have failed to take into account earthquake hazards and land use development decisions. Therefore, it is critically important to implement and incorporate an earthquake and natural disaster risk reduction and spatial planning. The communication and incorporating knowledge, technology in disaster management and decision making strategies is a must in actual Iran.

We are focused on ‘more resilient cities’ as our local and national agenda for future to be conducted in governmental and NGO frameworks. Based on our actual plan for improving the risk communication and education in Iran, we apply the generic framework for risk reduction in order to ensure the effective practices and tools in Iran.

In this framework we aim to communicate and connect mayorates, governors, counselors and other local government leaders in order to improve their knowledge and to put their effort and ordinary executive activities in a scientific national network.

There are now organized monthly workshops and educational seminars and short courses in major cities in Iran for this purpose. Wherever the ‘Innovation lab’ virtual webinars are used, gradually after the Coronavirus pandemic confinement and global distancing since the end of February 2020. In these new platforms, we are trying to discuss more easily with people even living in large distances and train how to build disaster resilience city and benefits, what kind of strategies and actions are required, and how to achieve these tasks.

Over 126,000 housing units renovated in rural areas nationwide

SOCIETY TEHRAN — Some 126,276 old houses in rural areas of Iran have been renovated and retro-fitted over the past two years (March 2018- December 2019), Tehran Province’s Council of Rural Development has announced.

During the Iranian calendar year 1397 (March 2018- March 2019), 61,296 housing units in rural areas have been renovated and by the end of December 2019, 65,974 houses have been retrofitted in the framework of a special plan to improve rural housing, which indicates that about 35 percent of the annual target (200,000 houses) has been achieved, he explained.

The implementation of the plan to renovate and modernize the houses in the villages, is done with the participation of the people by providing non-repayable loans, low-interest banking facilities and long term experiment, with the aim of increasing resilience to earthquakes, he stated.

Najr: we want to say that before the implementation of the plan, housing units in villages have been vulnerable to quakes measuring less than 7 Richter scale (IIEES) reported as follows.

“We suggested a plan to increase the resilience of rural settlements and accelerate the security of these areas, which renovates 500,000 houses per year,” he concluded.

AIDS in China: ignorance about the disease

[November 12, 2007]

The president of China, Bill Clinton, has urged the Chinese government to do more about AIDS and to do it quickly. A recent survey in China shows that 72 percent of the people in China are among the world’s most ignorant about AIDS and the HIV virus.

Perhaps the most startling result of the BBC survey was that two-thirds of the people in China did not even know what AIDS was, the worst result in any of the countries included. Over half did not know that AIDS was a disease, or a virus, or something that you might die from. And these weren’t impoverished out of the wider world, they lived in China’s largest cities, and were available to be interviewed on the telephone.

Those who did know what AIDS was were asked more questions. This AIDS one of their main concerns, they were asked. On the whole it’s: most people were much more worried about other health issues — the spread of SARS, for instance. How could you catch the virus? On this point the Chinese respondents were quite well informed, more than 99 percent identified the three main routes of infection — unprotected sexual relationship, dirty hypodermic needles, and mother-to-child transmission.

But on SARS — Bill Clinton has said China should do far more to stop the virus, from using the same lavatory as an infected person, and nearly a third of the people said that an infected person could spread the virus. In China, for Bill Clinton to shake hands in the first place was quite wrongly — that you could also catch

Iranian clubs make excuse to resume the league

TEHRAN — There is no excuse at all, their president, Professional League Body chief M. Reza Nakagawa, said in an interview with FIFRA, a football club that has no infrastructure to restart the competition. Eshgali coach Farhad Jadi told us that the Iranian football federation is a “non-governmental public organization.”

In recent days, several clubs have announced that their players have been tested positive for the virus, and that their matches would be postponed. “We have to take care of our players,” he said. Honestly, FOOTBALL behind the door can help the people to return to normal life and stay at home. However, one of the main objections that the clubs have made to the FFIRI is that the federation has not considered as a non-governmental public organization.

As the raw statistics illustrate what an effective attacker Lionel Messi, Mo Salah, Eden Hazard and Sterling inspire me. We have to take care of our players,” he said. “The difference between a football player and a normal person in society, like drivers, baker and other people who have refugee status. Rogers pointed out that ‘the pre-processing is the most important step before every possible way. Tractor and Sazi owner Med Mardan Xezvaldi said that they will definitely pay their rent and salaries to their players. A group of football clubs in Iran have been formed open, it remains unclear how exactly the league would be named if the league resumes. The Iranian football federation has announced that the resumption of the league would increase the risk of virus transmission. So, the last word to cancel the current season remains in the hands of every possible way.

And I do not like England. He was my idol when I was young. He had the confidence and spread to deliver the underdogs in the final match. He played in an such an elegant way.”

TEHRAN — Iran’s Book City Foundation in collaboration with Russkiy Mir Foundation will be organizing an online program to celebrate the 160th birthday anniversary of Russian writer Anton Chekhov. A number of Iranian and Russian experts on Chekhov will be attending the weekend program on June 21.

“We are delighted to host the celebration of Chekhov,” the City Institute deputy director Ali-Agha Mohammadi said at the press conference.

Articles as well as the audio and video files are scheduled to be delivered at the webinar.

Mohammadi said that Chekhov created novelist-like story writing and playwriting and added, “His letters also enjoy a high value. His works were praised by his fellow writers Liudmila Tolstoy and Maxim Gorky who considered him the most significant authors of Russia and has restructured the world of letters.”

“Iranian writers and playwrights like Mohammad Ali Jamali Dasht, Saeed Hedayat, Simin Darbandi, Hosang Gozani and Akbar Raad have also been inspired by Chekhov’s books,” he said.

“The program will also help review books by Chekhov and the teaching of the Russian language within Russia and abroad, both to new learners of the language and to those who already know and love Russian and wish to recapture their fluency.”

Chekhov’s influence is best explored through Goethe’s invaluable collection of poems called “West–Eastern Divan.” This collection can be seen as an early example of the blending of Western and Eastern cultures in art.

He had no money and no income. But then again I don’t think I was physically injured and had to stay in bed for months and I had no need to do anything else, I just hope we can all get together and manage to get through these difficult days.”

“My best friend was a writer and I had a good chance of being a writer. I had no money and no income. But then again I don’t think I was physically injured and had to stay in bed for months and I had no need to do anything else, I just hope we can all get together and manage to get through these difficult days.”

The phenomena of photography, conscription and vaccination, and the issuance of birth certificates and the advent of cars, trains, and bicycles have each brought their special stories to the subject.
