President says ‘tyrannical White House’ and ‘cruel’ sanctions are not permanent

BY ABIR BASSAM

The case has caused astonishment and anger among the Iranian football officials, who have been calling for an investigation into their contracts for the past year.

The Al-Ittihad board of directors and the FFIRI’s board of directors have both said in the past that the contracts were signed in good faith and that the FFIRI has no reason to cancel them.

However, some have questioned the legality of the contracts and have said that the FFIRI did not properly vet the terms.

Iranian football’s biggest scandal of all time

Negotiating a foreign head coach’s contract is far from simple, especially in the Iranian football, and, not only in Iran but generally in modern football, clubs and football federations have to consider many financial and legal issues when concluding a contract with a foreign coach.

There is no excuse for people who signed the foreign players and coaches. Some of the coaches are worth far too much, and some others take advantage of the mistakes in their contracts.

Wilmots filed a complaint against the FFIRI to FIFA for non-payment during his time as head coach.

Japanese environmental drawing contest honors paintings by Iranian children

The children are the members of the John A. Hannah Museum of Art and the John A. Hannah Institute for Research on the Jewish Diaspora.

The contest is co-organized for children aged 5 to 12 by the Japan International Certificate Organization Network (JCPOA) and the International Certification Organization Network (JCPOA). It is also supported by the UNICEF Tokyo Office.

A budget of 1.1 trillion rials (about $26 million), a country that ranked the third fastest-growing tourism destination in 2019.

The projects include eco-lodge units, traditional restaurants, and accommodation centers.

Earlier this month, the tourism minister Ali-Agha Mostaghim said that the coronavi- rus pandemic should not be leading to a complete standstill. "Corona is a fact, but can the virus stop tourism? Certainly not. For us, the coronavirus is a new experience in dealing with crises that teaches tourists experts around the world how to deal with such a disaster, and thankfully governments are turning this into an opportunity for better planning."

Iran has already seen a decline of 12 trillion rials (some $3.85 billion at the official rate of 42,000 rials), since the outbreak of the coronavirus pandemic.

Some experts expect Iran to have a tourism boom after the coronavirus period, believing it will be much less expensive and less crowded for a country that ranked the third fastest-growing tourism destination in 2019.

4.5m new trading accounts opened in stock market in 4 months

TEHRAN — The head of Iran’s Securities and Exchange Organization (SEO) said that 4.5 million new trading accounts have been opened in the country’s stock market during the first four months of the current Iranian calendar year (March 20-July 21).

Hasan Ghalibaf-fard said it is while the number of trading accounts in the stock market was 20,000 in the past year and 50,000 in its preceding year, IRNA reported.

The SEO head further announced that the new shareholders have entered the stock market with the average capital of 100 million rials (about $2,380) – 150 million rials (about $3,571). It should be noted that SEO is planning to change the rules for opening stock market accounts in the near future.

Based on an announcement by the SEO, the new applicants can introduce four documents after opening their trading accounts and they are required to pass an exam given by SEO. They are also required to open an account in the SEO during the one-month time, while they are also committed to transferring at least a quarter of their account value and if they do so, their accounts will be blocked.

As decided by SEBRA, the applicants are required to take the mentioned exam in person or virtually, and it is in line with the country’s strategy to educate the investors.

Elsewhere in his remarks, the SEO head said that the capital market is not paid off by expanding the bases of the past years, adding, “But this market is currently highly welcomed which has made a real change and development in it.”

He said while the total investment in the capital market reached 350 trillion rials (about $82.5 billion) in the previous year, the figure was one quadrillion rials (about $225 billion) just in the first four months of the current year.

Finance and Economic Affairs Minister Farhad Dejpasand has recently said, “We try to save the liquidity attracted by the capital market and lead it toward production and development.”

TPO hosts TPO-country Desk meetings with Turkey

TEHRAN — Director General of the Asia-Pacific Office at Iran’s Trade Promotion Organization (TPO) says his organization has hosted a Committee of the TPO country desk in collaboration with the Pakistan Trade Development Authority (PTDA) on developing the exports of agricultural, foodstuff products.

He said, “TPO is trying to increase the production of agricultural and food products in the country in the form of providing the needs of the production and using the export opportunities available in the field of agricultural and foodstuff products, ways to develop exports to Turkey were discussed.” Reza Sayed Aqaezadeh said.

As reported by the TPO portal, food products, and construction industries are among Iran’s advantages in the global markets, and the TPO aims to coordinate with the TPO country desk to manage the export development process by identifying the country’s foreign trade priorities.

“It was agreed that the first meeting would be held on developing the exports of agricultural, foodstuff products, and construction industries in the first quarter of the current year,” Aqaezadeh added.

As reported, the Country Desk-Country Desk on trade with Turkey was held at the place of the Trade Promotion Organization of Iran (TPO) and the Iran-Turkey Joint Chamber of Commerce.

In late July, the Iran-Turkey Joint Chamber of Commerce of said the coronavirus pandemic has decreased Iran’s export to Turkey in the first four months of the Iranian calendar year (started on March 20) compared to the previous year.

Mehrdad Sadr said there is no reason for such drop rather than the coronavirus pandemic, adding that trade between the two countries is fortunately increasing after reopening of the borders, and the traders are trying to compensate for the four-month drop in the bilateral trade.

“We are now reconvening some lines of trucks in the border crossings waiting for entering Turkey,” he added.

Sad said told IRNA on June 27 that Iran’s export to Turkey was continuing via the roads and railway.

He said, “The number of trucks waiting in Bazargan Border to enter Turkey indicates that Iran’s export to the neighbor is increasing, adding that Iran’s transit of commodities via Turkey has also risen noticeably after the reopening of this border.”

In early June, land borders between Iran and Turkey re-opened after more than three months.

7th shipping Indian wheat for Afghanistan arrives in Chabahar

TEHRAN — The seventh cargo ship carrying Indian donated wheat for Afghan arrived at Chabahar Port, southeastern Iran, a provincial official said.

Behrouz Aqaei, the director-general of Ports and Maritime Department of Sistan-Baluchestan Province, where the strategic Chabahar Port lies, said that the consignment was loaded in India and arrived in Chabahar.

He added that some 1,700 containers weighing 45,000 tons of India’s wheat for Afghanistan have so far arrived in the country.

The shipment has been sent to Afghanistan through the Mehran Border in the southern provinces of Baluchestan and Sistan-Baluchestan, which is also a transport route to Afghanistan.

Referring to the arrival of other humanitarian wheat from the UAE, Aqaei said, “The government has paid the cost of this wheat.”

As reported, the Commodity-Country Desk on trade with Afghanistan declared that the wheat with a value of 170 billion rials (equal to nearly $4.17 million) has arrived in Afghanistan.

Earlier, Union of Russia’s Ministry of Agriculture and Social Affairs Minister Alexander Tkachev noted that the country’s fifth major stock exchange.

The four other ones are TSE, Iran’s Real Estate Exchange (IRICA), the Iran Commodity Exchange (TMCME), and the Iran Stock Exchange (TSE) in the capital city of Tehran. Head of Iran Chamber of Commerce, Industries, Mines, and Agriculture (ICSIMA) says the establishment of the country’s real estate stock exchange is going to promote transparency in this market.

According to Hossein Salehvari, establishing this stock exchange is going to help to support exchange (IFESX), which is in charge of the establishment of the real estate exchange, Salehvari said: “We are studying various aspects of the establishment of this stock exchange.

The official noted that the Real Estate Exchange Company is going to be established with an initial capital of 30 trillion rials (about $782 million), which of which 50 percent will be offered to banks in the form of government loans, while 25 percent will be shared among government agencies and another 25 percent is given to private sector companies.

The government wishes to participate must submit their initial application; these companies will be allocated up to 10 percent of the total capital which would be 1.25 trillion rials (equal to nearly $32.5 million),” he added.

Underlining the great capacities of this exchange. Salehvari said the capital market has the ability to define practical solutions to the expansion of small and large construction projects, and that it can be used in financing the real estate projects by participating in the implementation of long-term housing.

Late June, Finance and Economic Affairs Minister Farhad Dejpasand announced the establishment of the strategic real estate stock exchange.

The minister had stated that the Committee for the Real Estate Ministry was finalizing this issue with the Securities and Exchange Organization (SEO).

Iranian customs ban rice imports as of August 22

TEHRAN — The country’s rice production stood between 8 and 9 million tons in the preceding year (1398 March 20-March 2019) and the increase in the production consequently decreased the imports of the commodity.

The customs service consumption stands at about three million tons. That means nearly 400,000,000,000 rials (about $990 million) are required to be imported in the previous year, according to Shaeqy.

However, the imports of nearly 730,000 tons of rice was imported into the country in the first quarter of the previous year (March 20-June 21, 2019).

More than 90 percent of Iran’s rice is produced in the three provinces of Gilan and Mazandaran, and less than 10 percent of the commodity is produced in the provinces of Kerman, Ilam, Khorasan, Khuzestan and so on.

Based on official statistics, over 2,900,000 hectares of the country’s agricultural lands are under rice culture, of which 220,000 hectares are in Mazandaran, Gilan and Golestan provinces.

Stationary retail sales fall 70%

TEHRAN — The Islamic Republic of Iran’s Minister of Commerce, Industries, Mines, and Agriculture (IRICA) has banned any registration for imports of sponge iron since the calendar month of Ordibehesht (May 21-June 20).

Production of sponge iron has climbed six percent to 27.907 million tons in the past Iranian calendar year (March 20-July 21) from 25.786 million tons in its preceding year, according to the data released by the Iran Commodity and Stabilization Association (ISPA).

The country’s export of sponge iron has also risen seven percent in the past year. Meanwhile, sponge iron consumption in the country increased four percent to 26.647 million tons from 25.286 million tons on an annual basis.

Three projects each with a capacity of 300,000 tons are considered in the country during the past Iranian year.

The projects were put into operation in the northeastern province of Kerman, South Khorasan Province in east and Chaharmahal-Bakhtiari Province in the southwest of the country.

The country’s only second to India globally in terms of the volume of sponge iron production. The country is the 16th largest steel producer in the world.

Sponge iron is a metallic product produced through the direct reduction of iron ore in the strong blast. It is a substitute for scrap and therefore is massively useful in making steel through the secondary route. The procedure of sponge iron making aims to expel the oxygen from iron ore.
Low oil prices hamper China’s efforts to meet U.S. trade deal target

China has stepped up its purchases of U.S. crude oil in recent weeks, perhaps helped by Beijing’s drive to comply with the Phase 1 trade deal with Washington struck in January, but low oil prices may impede Beijing’s plans to meet the target to purchase energy products worth $80 billion, or about 10 percent lower compared to July and 34 percent lower oil production by 400,000 bpd.\n
As reported by Platts, the acceleration of purchases at a time when a review of the trade deal due over the weekend was postponed indefinitely due to U.S.-China relations, is timely but may not be sufficient to meet the conditions this year mean that any targets dependants on a recovery of the economy and demand will be out of reach.\n
In August, China is expected to cut crude oil imports and needs more crude oil cargoes for 2021.\n
State-owned Chinese oil companies returned to buying U.S. crude for September loading as Beijing continues its phase one trade deal obligations.\n
As of Sept. 2, China has already been purchasing U.S. crude oil for September.

China’s purchases of U.S. energy goods, including crude oil, will be double the previous high of 14.71 million barrels in January 2016.\n
Oil prices were trading down on Tuesday afternoon after a no-deal Brexit scenario, which saw WTI fall by 1.77% to $40.78/b. Brent crude oil fell by 1.71% to $42.80/b. The Brent crude benchmark is now $3.91/b below the WTI.

Last month’s sales, down 93% from the previous month, were 1.27 million barrels, a sharp drop from the previous month’s sales of 9.73 million barrels.

China imported 13.3 million barrels of crude oil in August, according to customs data issued on Tuesday, compared with 20.9 million barrels in July.

Russia’s crude oil exports to Europe may not stay low for long

Russia’s benchmark crude oil exports are trending lower so far in August compared to July, with Russia ramping up production with the easing of the OPEC+ cuts, this summer’s trend of subdued activity as it is struggling with the spread of COVID-19 in Europe, Platts data of August 20 showed.\n
In 2017, China imported about 153,000 million barrels of crude a month in the US.

Saudi Arabia, the world’s largest oil exporter, reduced its production by about 200,000 barrels per day (bpd) in August compared to July, according to data by the International Energy Agency (IEA).\n
The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) has been meeting every full OPEC+ meeting only, because of the volatile oil market situation.

Russia’s Energy Minister Alexander Novak will take part in the online inaugural meeting of the OPEC+ meeting on Thursday, despite testing positive for COVID-19, Russia’s energy ministry said on Tuesday.

Novak feels good and don’t have any symptoms, and he plans to take part in the OPEC+ panel’s meeting on August 19 via video conference. He is Russia’s energy minister and a member of Russian outlet RBC.

The Joint Ministerial Monitoring Committee (JMMC) holds meetings every month to monitor the progress of the accord, and the next meeting is scheduled for Aug. 19.

The JMMC is meeting this week, but it will not discuss any new compliance data for August. It is in charge of making any major decisions to tweak the deal, Novak said last week.

Other suppliers have been quickly filling the gaps as oil production by 400,000 bpd in July.

Beirut blast caused serious societal and Lebanese export

By Mohammad Hashash

TEHRAN – The Beirut blast on August 4th not only caused human and financial losses but raised doubts about the management of the incident and its aftermath.

The Lebanese government has taken to series of measures to face the repercussions of the blast.

The Lebanese government decided to form a committee headed by Prime Minister Hassan Diab to investigate the incident. The committee has been tasked with submitting a report that takes the most serious penalties for those who have failed to do their duties properly.

The committee also submitted a memorandum to the National Security Council to impose house arrest on even who was responsible for the incident and to prevent them from leaving the country.

Besides economic losses and deaths, the massive explosion may affect the Lebanese political future. Some observers say it has deepened the division between the rival political parties, while others say it may have defined that the blast will commit suicide in the Lebanese political life.

In this regard, Al Yawm, a Lebanese constituent, reported that Teheran Times that the Beirut blast triggered internal divisions of the Islamist forces, especially between Iran and Hezbollah. The same was about to happen in Syria, where the Lebanese militia, and especially their Iranian hosts, needed to worry about the future of the region.

It was also reported that the Hezbollah members were responsible for the blast and had to identify any rocket remnants and the sources of the blast. The committee will be collecting and studied both Hezbollah and Lebanese government reports to find any indication of an external attack.

I do want to note that the two explo- sions were separated by 33 seconds. The first occurred after the ammonium nitrate explosion, which is considered to be a temperature of more than 210 degrees Celsius (The Beirut government denied such an explosion), and equivalent to the explosion of 1000 one-ton bombs.

It was essentially similar to a tacti- cal nuclear bomb that formed a massive mushroom cloud.

The explosion exposed Lebanon's warplanes, experts, it is known as “Riley Taylor's Instantaneous, which indicates the movement of two liquids with a different density, pushing the heavy liquid, thus producing the mushroom shape. The movement of the liquids can be separated in three phases, will include the explosion of the huge ammonium nitrate and its intended destination (especially since it represents a mixture of ammonium nitrate and nitroglycerine that was delivered to the city). The other two are announced by the Lebanese Parliament and the Lebanese President. The results of this process can cause a chemical reaction that will leave a waiting period to determine the environment. For the past 30 years, the Lebanese government was responsible for the blast and their solutions for rebuilding the past. Is Lebanon going internationalize its port? What are the reasons for the resignation of Hassan Diab's government? What are the rules of the international community, especially the economic pressure imposed on Lebanon? What do you notice, a government, especially a democratic government, such as that in Lebanon, can withstand and respond to the global and regional security threats? What is the difference between the French Foreign Minister, and other international states, especially in the region? What are the reasons for the reduction of the Lebanese political situation?

A: It is very strange that the Beirut blast triggered a response of global sym- pathy and social justice with the people of Lebanon. With the immediate assistance of the Palestinian Civil Defense, Lebanon Red Cross, and Lebanon civil society in addition to the generosity of many Syrian citizens, including citizens and refugees who were helpful victims, and also public officials who heard different dialects that they let a hand.

However, internal political divisions and the soft counter-war that continues to exploit existing tensions exacerbated the situation. For example, Dr. Milton Friedman's Shock Doctrine's political economy of techniques that cannot be accepted in “normal situations,” as it is written in Chile, Argentina, Indonesia and Iran, East Asia, Iraq, Libya. The attempts to restore the nations of post-Hariri assassination of 2005, status is unsafe due to local, regional and international actors.

González-Lavalle’s primary political par- tner, Pepe Rosas, is an advocate of the Free Patriotic Movement, and the economic pressure imposed on Lebanon was given a full pardon.

The blast has completely changed the international balance that was imposed on Lebanon, and because of these factors, the international community has made this terrible deal with the Israelis. The same was about to happen in Syria.

It was the Israeli war in 2006 that could bring back the Syrians to Lebanon unless the Lebanese government asked them. It seemed that the situation was still outside normal deep. When Hassan Diab was assassinated, it was the huge erosion that made it possible for the Armenians to fall at least one of their demands: the Syrian Army withdraws from Lebanon.

The Syrian departure resulted in non-humanitarian results. Syrian workers were attacked in the streets, more than 300 were killed, and no official investigations were seriously held. Until today no indications were directed to anyone. This, for sure, strengthened the position of Hezbollah in Lebanon. Even Syrian businessmen were kidnapped in southern Lebanon, but for whom? However, the Syrian police arrested several attackers, and re- tired many of them to Lebanon.

No recognition of Israeli unless Palestine freed: Imran Khan

Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan has categorically said that Pakistan could not recognize Israel as a state unless it gave free and unfettered access to Palestinian refugees and lifted all kinds of restrictions on Palestinian self-determination. Recognizing Israel, he said, would mean "selling out the Palestinian cause," and Pakistan would never do so.

In a two-hour-long interview with Dunya TV on Tuesday, Khan said that the policy of his previous government to deal with the issue of Palestine had been to create a situation where the world would come forward and put pressure on Israel to address the Palestinian plight.

"We recognize Israel and ignore tyranny faced by the Pal- estinians, we are not going to give in to the threats," Khan said.

The Prime Minister also said that the recent Israeli attacks on Gaza were "unacceptable" and Pakistan would always stand by the Palestinian cause.

Khan said that Pakistan was not going to recognize Israel until a new election was arranged. "We stand by our principles and we will never recognize Israel until a new election is arranged," he said.

He also said that Pakistan was not going to recognize Israel until "the death and injustice of our suffered is just our duty, it is also a matter of pride." He further said that Pakistan would never give in to Israel's "theft." It is a matter of pride that Pakistan has stood by the Palestinian people for almost three and a half years, much longer than the United States has been redeploying troops to the occupied West Bank.

"We stand by our principles and we will never recognize Israel until a new election is arranged," he said.

A book containing a selection of stories taken from Ferdowsi’s epic masterpiece Shahnameh, and bearing illustrations by Mortezza Momayyez, has been published by Yasouy publishers in Tehran.

The stories have been rewritten by writer, translator and literary critic Golmohammadi in the book named “Selections from Ferdowsi’s Shahnameh.”

Momayyez, who is considered to be the father of modern graphic art in Iran, died of cancer in 2023 at the age of 79.

“The book is a selection of the stories in poetry and prose, and it is very useful for the younger generation who is not very familiar with Shahnameh,” Golmohammadi said.

The book tries to encourage the youth to read Shahnameh with a more attractive form of narrative, while the illustrations by Momayyez have made the appearance of the book very special.

The book was published in 1970s and 1980s to get to know Momayyez, and gave me some of his illustrations on Shahnameh so that I choose poetry suitable for the designs from Shahnameh and later published them with inscriptions by a famous calligrapher, Golmohammadi said.
