Iran unveils tests new COVID-19 vaccine

TEHRAN – Fawad Fard, named after martyr nuclear scientist Mohsen Fakhrizadeh, was unveiled and started clinical trials Tuesday. IRNA reported.

The Iranian researcher was injected into the son of marty Fakhrizadeh.

From the beginning of the coronavirus pandemic, relying on specialised, committed, and experienced forces, with the efforts of martyr Fakhrizadeh, the fight against the disease began.

The production of various diagnostic kits of COVID-19 and mobile specialised laboratories was the start of this process.

Zarif reminds the West who pursues ‘malign’ behavior in the region

TEHRAN – Iranian Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif has criticised the West’s hypocrisy over who really pursues “malign” behavior in the West Asia region.

The chief Iranian diplomat said the West provided chemical weapons to former Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein during the Iran-Iraq war in the 1980s, which Saddam used against Kurdish people in northern Iraq on March 16, 1988.

“March 16 is the 33rd anniversary of the chemical war in Halabja. Some care not to remember—those in the west who provided Saddam with the deadly chemicals. Over 5,000 innocent civilians were nauseous. Still want to talk about ‘malign regional behavior’? Shameless,” the foreign minister said in a tweet on Tuesday.

American academic says U.S. can’t be an “ethical model”

By Reza Mosheghi

TEHRAN – An American academic says that U.S. governance is not at all an “ethical model” in the 21st century, but it is an international fact that other countries following the footsteps of the U.S. are implementing the American model.

But the rest of the world operates in the same way, the Tehran Times says.

Many observers inside and outside America believe that Trump’s presidency raised what is called “American dream” and raised serious questions about U.S. global leadership.

Now the world is more aware about what is going on inside America, especially the criminal, hypocritical, and racist behavior of this country.

This is the text of the interview:

What are the main challenges facing President Biden?

President Biden is committed to supporting the principles of the U.S. Constitution, like ensuring equality of opportunity for all citizens. I would say that his job is to do his best to promote the “American dream.”

But the world is watching America and continues to see the United States of America in a systematic distortion of global responsibilities.

What is the main roots of division inside the West?

In the United States, we see this division extend back through the entire history of the U.S., especially in the civil war.

Do you think that racism and far-right religious and political parties are eliminated in the U.S.?

I think that racism and far-right religious and political parties are being eliminated in the U.S. and the American dream is in the hands of the good, hardworking, and peaceful people.

Top general says Iran capable of launching a full-scale war with US

Zarif says Iran has always favored inclusive arrangements in region and beyond

Zarif made the remarks at a the "Tehran Summit: Cybersecurity Cooperation" conference, where he said that "Iran has always been ready for inclusive and workable arrangements in the region to address the issues of cybersecurity and cyber defense." He added that such arrangements would be beneficial for all parties involved.

The new cooperation agreement with Russia on cyber-security and information technology was signed by the officials of the two countries in the presence of President Hassan Rouhani. The agreement was reached during a meeting between Rouhani and his Russian counterpart, Vladimir Putin, which took place on the sidelines of the 76th Session of the UN General Assembly in New York.

The agreement was hailed as a significant step towards enhancing regional cooperation in the field of cybersecurity and cyber defense, and was seen as a response to the increasing threat of cyber attacks.

The agreement is expected to enhance cooperation between the two countries in various areas, including the exchange of information and intelligence, the development of cyber security and defense systems, and the training of cybersecurity experts.

Zarif noted that the agreement is part of Iran's broader strategy to strengthen its cybersecurity and cyber defense capabilities, and to protect its critical infrastructure from cyber attacks.

He also emphasized the importance of maintaining a balance between national security and respect for international laws and norms in the field of cybersecurity.

Iranian Ambassador to the UN Gholamreza Dehghani said that the agreement would contribute to the establishment of a regional cybersecurity framework, and to the enhancement of cooperation between Iran and other countries in the region.

Iran says U.S. forces must leave Syria immediately

Takht-Ravanchi also called on the international community to put an end to its military adventures in Syria.

Iran has long criticized U.S. military presence in Syria, with Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif saying, “The Syrian people do not accept continued occupation or violation of their sovereignty and the international community should not content to it either, because it contravenes the most basic principles of international law,” he noted. Takht-Ravanchi and Zarif also condemned the attacks by U.S. forces and Israel in Iraq and Syria, noting that such illegal measures worsen the situation in an already tense region.

“Tehran wants to emphasize that nothing justifies the illegal presence of foreign troops in Iraq and Syria under the guise of fighting terrorism, and it’s time for foreign forces to leave the region,” the Iranian official added.

The U.S.-led coalition, which started the military operation in Syria in October 2014 to combat the Islamic State group, has now ended the war against IS. But the U.S.-led coalition and their allies have continued to attack the Syrian government and its partners in the fight against terrorism. The U.S.-led coalition has also provided military support to Kurdish forces in northern Syria, which has led to tensions with Syrian President Bashar Assad’s regime.

The Syrian government has accused the U.S. of supporting terrorism in Syria and has repeatedly called for the withdrawal of foreign troops from the country. The Syrian government has also imposed sanctions on the U.S. and its allies for their support of terrorism in Syria.

The U.S. has said it will continue to support the Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF), a coalition of Kurdish and Arab fighters, in the fight against the Islamic State group. The U.S. has also provided military support to the Syrian government in the fight against terrorism.

President Donald Trump has said he will withdraw U.S. troops from Syria, but it is unclear how quickly this will happen. The U.S. has said it will maintain a small number of troops in Syria to counter the Islamic State group and to ensure a smooth transition to a democratic government in Syria.

The Syrian government has repeatedly called for the withdrawal of foreign troops from the country and for the respect of international law. The Syrian government has also imposed sanctions on the U.S. and its allies for their support of terrorism in Syria.

The Syrian government has also called for an end to the sanctions imposed by the U.S. and its allies on Syrian banks and individuals. The Syrian government has also called for an end to the economic sanctions imposed on Syria by the U.S. and its allies.

Iran-EAEU trade reaches $1.9b in 11 months

ECONOMY

TEHRAN – The value of oil-oil trade between Iran and the members of the Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU) stood at $1.9 billion in the first 11 months of the current Iranian calendar year (March 20, 2020 – February 19, 2021), data released by Tehran Chamber of Commerce, Industries, Mines and Agriculture (TCCIMA) showed.

Based on the data, the volume of trade shows a 9.4-percent fall, as compared with the same period of time in the past year.

According to TCCIMA, Iran exported 2.4 million tons of commodities worth $3.83 billion to the EAEU members in the period under review, registering a 9.5-percent decline in terms of volume and a 12.1-percent decline in terms of value.

Iran’s imports from the block stood at 2.9 million tons valued at $1 billion, with a one-percent rise in weight, and a 14-percent drop in value.

The value of non-oil trade between Iran and the EAEU was signed on May 17, 2018, in an open session on February 28, 2020, which the said period in terms of volume and value, respectively.

The mentioned data, the value of trade shows a decline in terms of value.

According to Iran’s Power Generation and Distribution Company (TAVANIR), this program called “Power of Harmony” was aimed at raising electricity consumption in low-consumer groups, and also the strict consumption management programs in the current year have already been identified.

According to the Energy Ministry’s consumption management programs, the first phase of the plan, which was started in March 2020, has reduced the number of consumers towards the proper use of energy resources by 10 percent.

The official described the first program as a training course to teach consumption management methods with the help of knowledge-based companies and start-ups, and that the Start-up companies will be formed in this field and will help us to optimize the consumption of high-consumption goods.

The second plan is to install solar panels on the roofs of high-consumption subscribers’ houses so that such subscribers would meet their electricity needs by installing these PV stations, Ardakanian explained.

Managing electricity consumption by various sectors including households, agriculture, and industry, and reducing the consumption of fossil fuels used by power plants has become one of the major priorities for the government.

Earlier, the Energy Ministry Spokesman for the electrical sector Mostafa Rashidi had told Tehran Times that the ministry’s specialists and experts defined different measures for different sectors to manage the country’s electricity consumption.

TheEnergy Ministry’s consumption management programs this summer are to be awarded.

To do so, high-consuming subscribers who so by implementing such plans, these subscribers would also join the low-consumption sector.

According to the official, every year, the country’s top companies are ranked according to their performance in the fields of production and export, job creation, and value added, and 100 top companies of the current year have already been identified.

This ranking is done among the county’s industrial, trade, and mining companies, and the top 10 companies are identified and selected to implement the country’s economic development plan.

First, the Ministry of Mines and Mineral Industries and the non-metallic sector, 10 companies in the mining sector and 10 companies are selected. These companies will be announced by the Ministry of Mines and Iran’s Deputy Transport Minister, Ahmad Davoudi, said that the mentioned companies were China with $8.1 billion worth of exports, Iraq with $6.8 billion, Turkey with $2.2 billion, and Afghanistan with $2.1 billion.

According to the official, the mentioned five countries accounted for 72 percent and 73 percent of Iran’s total non-oil exports in the said period, in terms of weight and value, respectively.

Meanwhile, the country’s top five sources of imports during those 11 months were China with $8.8 billion, the UAE with $8.4 billion, Turkey with $5.8 billion, India with $4 billion, and Germany with $3.7 billion worth of imports.

The mentioned countries exported a total of 1.6 billion tons of commodities worth $55.5 billion, 8.4 percent and 72 percent of the country’s total imports during the said period in terms of volume and value, respectively, compared to the same period last year.

Of the total imported commodities in the mentioned 11 months, some 24.1 million tons worth $11 billion, were basic goods.

Like all other countries around the world, Iran’s trade with its foreign partners has been affected by the coronavirus pandemic, however, the situation is getting back to normal and the country’s trade is reaching its pre-pandemic levels.

Climate crisis: recent European droughts ‘worst in 2,000 years’

The series of severe droughts and heatwaves in Europe since 2014 is the most extreme for more than 2,000 years, research suggests.

The study analysed two tree rings dating back far back as the Roman empire to create the longest such record so far. The data suggests global heating was the most probable cause of the recent rise in extreme heat.

However, the heatwaves and droughts also indicated, as a result of global warming, that extreme heatwaves and droughts in future.

The study also found a gradual drying of the summer climate in central Europe over the last two millennia, before the recent surge. The study concluded that of the variables investigated, it is extra dryness that is the most probable reason for the recent rise in extreme heat.

The study, which was published in the journal Nature Geoscience, analysed 27,000 years of tree ring data from Europe.

The study concluded that of the variables investigated, it is extra dryness that is the most probable reason for the recent rise in extreme heat. The researchers said, it is unlikely that the droughts and heatwaves in the future are caused by natural processes.
