Iran-China strategic partnership: a roadmap for mutual prosperity

BY Ebrahim Fallahi

TEHRAN – Iran, and China have signed a comprehensive long-term cooperation agreement with the aim of cementing their economic and political alliance as both countries are subject to U.S. sanctions.

The agreement, which will significantly expand the two countries’ economic cooperation is seen to be a great blow to Washington’s efforts for isolating the Islamic Republic of Iran’s economy and therefore has raised concerns in the United States.

Since the signing of the deal on March 27, a wave of negative press has been created around the issue both on social platforms and on media.

The agreement is claimed to be a deal based on which Iran is giving China great power and authority over the country’s resources and the Chinese will soon become a stakeholder in most of Iran’s important industries.

The above-mentioned claims are just part of the efforts made by the U.S. and its allies for discrediting and sabotaging an agreement which seems to be a big threat to American unilateralism in the region.

The question, however, is how much the mentioned claims are true? And does this agreement really jeopardize Iran’s integrity and interests in any way? To answer these questions, some major aspects of this comprehensive cooperation agreement should be looked into in more detail.

As to our body of knowledge in this regard, the Tehran Times conducted interviews with economists and board members of Iran Chamber of Commerce, Industries, Mines and Agriculture (ICICMA) All Shires Ardakan and Khorazhgan.

Sanctions should be lifted ‘all at once and completely’: parliament

TEHRAN – Iranian parliament representatives issued a statement on Sunday saying that a return to the 2015 nuclear deal – JCPOA - by the United States will be unachievable and illegitimate. The statement followed an interview of sanctions that will be lifted in one or more stages and that can be verified.

Calling the sanctions aggressive, the lawmakers said the “announced stages,” with the current JCPOA parties will actually lead to a perpetuation of sanctions, and that will be “unacceptable” and will run counter to the “general policies of the establishment and the Majlis law.”

The statement followed the renewal and the remaining parties to the JCPOA – the three European countries of Britain, France-Germany, Russia and China – held a virtual meeting within the framework of the JCPOA Joint Commission on Friday, before the kickoff of the 15th round of talks in Vienna.

Charity foundation supports treatment of 7,000 infertile couples

TEHRAN – Banket Charity Foundation, headed by Headquarters for Executing the Order of the Imam, has financially supported 7,000 infertile couples in rural areas to receive necessary treatments.

In the 15 years of its work, the organization has treated 9,175 infertile couples, which has resulted in the birth of 800 infants, 352,320 vehicles, with 12.6 percent fall from 353,370 vehicles in the previous year.

And Pars Khodro manufactured 159,172 vehicles in the past year, showing a 28.9 percent drop from the output of its previous year, which was 106,272 vehicles.

Zarif urges E3 to act ‘constructively’ in Vienna meeting

POLITICAL
TEHRAN – Iranian Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif said on Thursday that there would be no changes in Iran’s nuclear stance after the meeting of the JCPOA Joint Commission in Vienna.

“Now, we have reached 50 kilograms,” he estimated.

“I urged France to show a constructive stance on the JCPOA in next week’s virtual meeting of the Joint Commission led by senior European Union diplomat Josep Borrell,” Zarif added.

He said that the lifting of sanctions would be conditional on the other side’s full implementation of its obligations under the JCPOA. On Sunday, Deputy Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi emphasized that the two sides would work closely with each other to remove the remaining obstacles to the completion of the deal.

The circle of tensions in West Asia runs slow, and after a slow or modest pace, it can potentially plunge. Like a magnet, it will attract more and more. The JCPOA crisis has the potential to divide the region. One of the challenges facing the JCPOA is to be contained. If we do not act fast, it will spread like wildfire.

Iranian, Afghan diplomats discuss mutual cooperation at border point

The two sides agreed that operations to rebuild and renovate bridges and border crossing points should continue without affecting border and legal issues, and that such issues should be reviewed and settled by the two countries’ joint border commission.

The two sides also exchanged views on the significance of developing and a trade balance between the two countries as well as the need to make efforts to regulate trips to and from towns on both sides of the border.

Among other topics discussed were the necessity of setting up a mechanism to prevent people trafficking, drug smuggling, and international terrorism, facilitating aid delivery, as well as strengthening communication, public health, and emergency, as well as other mutual issues.

Araghchi also said: “Iran has always guaranteed the measures it took under the agreement some three years ago.

Iran-China strategic partnership: a roadmap for mutual prosperity

The official mentioned a letter that he had written to the heads of the four major companies regarding the main plans for the current year, which he proposed on the subject and asked the heads of the four companies to draft a document to determine the production plans for the current year and submit them to the Oil Ministry.

Zanganeh further mentioned the great progress made in the oil industry during the previous year, and noted that sanctions were a determining factor in the development of the oil industry and the national economy.

The minister outlined the country’s goals in the oil industry, focusing on both China and the regional market. He said: “The goal is for Iran and China to have a roadmap for mutual prosperity in the region and to improve the region’s energy security.”

Zanganeh outlined the oil ministry’s strategic goals for the current year:

1. Development and Promotion of the Oil Industry
   - Increase production to meet domestic needs and export markets.
   - Focus on mega-projects and large fields.
   - Enhance collaboration with China in the oil sector.

2. Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency
   - Increase renewable energy production.
   - Develop energy efficiency programs.
   - Collaborate with China in the field of renewable energy.

3. International Trade and Investment
   - Strengthen bilateral trade agreements.
   - Expand Iran’s presence in the regional electricity market.
   - Collaborate with China in the energy sector.

4. Environmental Protection
   - Reduce greenhouse gas emissions.
   - Implement environmental projects.
   - Collaborate with China in environmental protection.

Annual natural gas consumption rises 8%

The head of the National Iranian Gas Company (NIGC), Hasan Montazer Torbati, said the country’s natural gas consumption in the previous Iranian calendar year (ended on March 20) increased by 8% compared to the previous year. He explained that the increase in consumption is due to the use of gas in various sectors, including domestic, commercial, and non-major industries.

According to Montazer Torbati, the increase in gas consumption by domestic and power plants hit new record figures in the previous year. He said that the country’s natural gas consumption reached 181 million cubic meters per day in the previous year, which is a significant increase compared to the previous year.

The minister also said that the country’s renewable energy sector is growing rapidly, with the share of renewables in the country’s energy mix increasing significantly. He added that the government is focusing on both renewable energy and energy efficiency programs to meet the country’s energy needs.

Solar farms’ installed capacity stands at nearly 900MW

The minister mentioned that Iran has installed solar capacity of solar farms with a capacity of 900 MW, which is a significant milestone in the country’s renewable energy sector.

Production of 8 major minerals, mining industry products up 54%

According to the Oil Ministry, the country is currently producing over 810 million cubic meters of natural gas per day, which is a significant increase compared to the previous year. The minister said that the increase in gas production is due to the development of new fields and the increase in production capacity of existing fields.

Commodities worth $200m traded at IME in a week

The Tehran Stock Exchange (TSE) index stood at 37,414 points on Sunday. Over 1.35 billion securities worth 18.069 trillion rials (about $430.2 million) were traded at the TSE on Sunday.

According to the Tehran Stock Exchange, the first market’s index dropped 10,030 points, while the second market’s index fell 22,318 points. TEDPIX has risen eight percent in the last week of the past Iranian calendar year (ended on March 20).

The index increased 101,600 points since the last week of February, reflecting a 2.7% increase per day during the last week of February. Iranian Capital Market Analyst Soheil Ardakani believes that the market is going to go through many ups and downs over the next six months and the market is expected to follow a stable trend.

“In the coming months, the market will not fall heavily, but we also can’t expect the index to enter an upward trend,” Ardakani said.

Pointing to the recent decline in the Tehran Stock Exchange (TSE) main index, he added: “There is no guarantee that the market will be in a good condition both technically and fundamentally, but despite the positive movements that the Securities and Exchange Organization (SEO) has put on the agenda to improve the market, it is still following a downward trend; therefore, there is a high chance of a shareholders’ skepticism and anxiety.”
Two rockets hit near Iraq airbase hosting U.S. soldiers

Two rockets hit near an Iraqi airbase hosting U.S. soldiers north of Baghdad on Saturday, the latest attack on an American military target in Iraq, security officials said.

The attack, which happened shortly after dawn, was the latest in a series of incidents targeting bases housing American troops in Iraq. The officials said the rockets landed near the Taji airbase, which hosts U.S. forces in Iraq.

The U.S. military said it had no immediate information about the attack.

Security officials said the attack did not result in any injuries to American or Iraqi soldiers.

The U.S.-led forces in Iraq have faced a series of attacks by Iranian-backed militia groups in recent months. The attacks have escalated tensions between the United States and Iran, with both sides blaming each other for the incidents.

The latest attack comes as the United States and its allies in Iraq continue to work on a strategy to reduce their military presence in the country. The U.S. military has been gradually withdrawing its forces from Iraq since 2011, when it began its invasion to oust the dictator Saddam Hussein.

The U.S.-led coalition in Iraq has been involved in training and advising the Iraqi government and security forces to combat the Islamic State group, which was declared defeated in 2017.

In recent months, the coalition has faced criticism for its role in the ongoing conflict in Yemen, where it has been involved in a military alliance with the Saudi-led coalition.

The U.S. military has also been involved in providing training and support to Afghan forces in the fight against the Taliban, which has been gaining ground in recent years.

TEHRAN—Nano technology's trend of development is growing and it has many applications and opportunities for the country, which was developed in the previous [Iranian calendar] year (March 20, 2020-March 20, 2021), according to the researcher and the former head of the Research Organization for Development, Renovation, and Equipping Schools, who also noted that 95% of the companies in the field of nanotechnology and by the end of last year, which developed a total of 10,000 products and equipment.

One of the major enterprises in the national field of nanotechnology, and in the last year, which developed a total of 30,000 products and equipment, is the Iran nanotechnology product database, 535 were related to medications, etc. to treat infertility are also available in the database, and over 81,000 classrooms built in 8 years with high technology machines, he noted that regarding the amount spent, which is $2 billion at the official rate of 42,000 rials, Sattari announced.

Over 81,000 classrooms built in 8 years

TEHRAN—Some 81,500 classrooms have been retrofitted to meet the safety standards, accounting for 30 percent of the national classrooms, which are dilapidated, not meeting safety standards, by the end of the previous [Iranian calendar] year (March 20, 2021).

The fertility rate in Iran has been declining over the past few years, with the lowest of which was related to the previous [Iranian calendar] year (March 2019-March 2020) with a birth rate of 1.4, according to the data recently published by the Statistic Center. This fertility rate in simple terms refers to the total number of children born actively in Iran per woman in her lifetime if she were subject to the prevailing rate of age-specific fertility in the population.

According to the data released by the National Organization for Civil Registration, the number of births registered during the [Iranian calendar] year 1399 (March 20, 2020) was equal to 1,528,053 births in the [Iranian calendar] year 1398 (March 2019-March 2020).

However, the number of births in the world country faced a downturn over the past three years, as registered births decreased by 1,612,537 over the past [Iranian calendar] year; a decline of roughly over 100,000 in 10 years per year.

Nicholas Eberstadt, the Henry Wendell Chair in Political Economy at the American Enterprise Institute (AEI) wrote in an article in July 2020 that the fertility rate in Iran has dropped by 70 percent over the past 30 years. This is the highest decrease in the rate of childhood per woman in the history of the world, he added.

Some 14 policies to support childbearing have been implemented in the past 30 years, which has been the highest number of policies compared to previous years, as a total of 86 trillion rials has been allocated in these policies, he also said.
Owj docudrama chronicles life of anti-terror martyr Avini

Directed by Sedagheh Dargahi, the film is about Adel, a 16-year-old boy whose parents have divorced and who has been left to fend for himself. He lives a very happy and extravagant life with his father in Tehran, until his relatives live in another province ask his father to remarry. Despite Adel’s disapproval, his father marries a woman in hopes of getting married. However, on the way there he dies in a tragic accident. Adel’s relationship with his mother is strained to the limit and he has to deal with her guidance until the age of 48 so he can wisely consider his own inheritance. However, Adel wants his independence and begins to live his own life.

The Iranian pre-Islamic era in Islamic art

Two buildings in Damascus share similar significant features, namely a Sassanid building at Topl Hassan and the Tarikhan Mosque (dating from the 8th century). The architecture in both buildings includes four axial ayvans, three aisles shows two arcades resting on massive round pillars and side walls supporting three parallel vaults opening into the courtyard, a layout also used in Tarikhan Mosque. Both the Sassanid Building and the Bishapur Mosque have three aisles, constructed of hewn blocks, are set verticall and horizontally and without transitions the same. However, the same complex is in the Dar al-Imarah in Kuwait and the Imamzadeh Masih Sarabi in the city of Yazd-e Khast, on the border between Iran and Afghanistan. This series covers the entire life of Martyr Avini, the young Afghan boy who became the last to be killed in the Israeli military, until his relatives live in another province ask his father to remarry. Despite Adel’s disapproval, his father marries a woman in hopes of getting married. However, on the way there he dies in a tragic accident. Adel’s relationship with his mother is strained to the limit and he has to deal with her guidance until the age of 48 so he can wisely consider his own inheritance. However, Adel wants his independence and begins to live his own life.

“This Night’s Train” directed by Hamidreza Qotbi received the Red Rose award for best released film between September 2019 and December 2020. The film was also nominated for the best adaptation. Award. Qotbi and Behnaz Kazashi co-wrote the screenplay based on a short story of the same title by Ahmad Aboobakr.

“The Night’s Train” is a writer who also works as a teacher. She narrates the story of an orphan girl who grows up in her classroom. Each student continues the story with her own imagination, and this gives the teacher material for her new story.

The purpose of this documentary is to show the efforts and solidarity of many people who strive to improve their lives by removing the obstacles that block them.
